Smoke and flames erupt over the city of Chicago. FBI Agent Nick Catlin watches helplessly as their only lead straps on a glider and leaps off a high rooftop, soaring toward Lake Michigan. They've lost him, again. The crime scenes always fit the same pattern—five babies are among the casualties. Fourteen months later, though, in New York, no infant bodies are found. Nick's gut tells him the killer was somehow interrupted in his work and won't stop until he tracks down those children and finishes what he started.

Oklahoma rancher Leigh Barrus is barely making ends meet when his estranged niece, Janet, shows up at his ranch with five babies in tow. The terrifying tale she tells him about genetic experiments is only the beginning of the shocking truths....

“Kept me guessing what would happen next. I was hooked!”

—CHASE VON, author of Pink, Blue and Green, Your Chance To Hear The Last Panther Speak

“Riveting and on-the-edge-of-your-seat exciting.”

SUSAN PETTRONE, susanvoraciousreader.blogspot.com

BRUCE JUDISCH, author of Katia, A Prophet's Tale: Book 1, The Journey Begun, Book 2, The Word Fulfilled

DANIEL L. CARTER

Born and raised in New York State, Daniel has always enjoyed Sci-Fi and Fantasy stories. Some of his favorite authors include Robert Aspirin and Stephen R. Donaldson. Having studied at Elim Bible Institute and Hudson Valley Bible School, he found himself fascinated with heavenly realms and spiritual principalities. The G-6 Chronicles opens up a new paranormal fantasy world that will appeal to many ages.
